

What to look for in an EMR for your pediatric therapy clinic:

1. Text & Email Reminders

Remembering appointments can be tough for anyone, especially busy parents. Text and email reminders are a must!

LOOK FOR:

Affordable text & email reminders. Look closely! Some EMRs charge an extra fee per text or email.

2. Visual Goal Tracking

Pediatric therapists need to be able to show parents and payers that their patients are making progress. Visual goal tracking makes that a lot easier.

LOOK FOR:

Automatic patient progress and specific goal mastery tracking without irrelevant (i.e. adult focused) metrics

3. Authorization Tracking

You've got your hands full already! Don't make life harder by using an EMR that doesn't track authorizations.

LOOK FOR:

Authorization tracking and, more importantly, reminders

4. Task Management

Pediatric documentation takes up enough of your time already, so make sure your EMR includes features to make sure nothing slips through the cracks.

LOOK FOR:

Reminders for documentation (progress notes, re-evals, etc.), authorizations, and custom tasks.

5. Flexible Scheduling

Kids' schedules change more often than adults so pediatric therapists need the ability to make scheduling changes on the fly.

LOOK FOR:

Drag-and-drop calendar, color coded appointments

6. Pediatric Content

This one's a no-brainer! If your clinic focuses on children, you need pediatric content to make documentation as efficient as possible!

LOOK FOR:

Discipline-specific goal banks, assessment content, & standardized tests
